Makaton

Talking does not just involve speaking. Watch someone talking, they will also be using gestures, facial expression, eye contact and body language. All this is communication. Makaton uses speech with signs (gestures) and symbols (pictures) to help people communicate. Would you like to learn some useful signs to use with your child?

As part of our Coltales programme (City of London Talks and Listens Enthusiastically) we post Makaton videos every Wednesday on our social media platforms. Follow us on Instagram, Facebook, Twitter or search #ColtalesTopTips

Start for Life Survey and Consultation

The City of London is undertaking a consultation and survey with resident parents and carers, on the subject of early years services in the City. It only takes a few minutes and your views are key to ensuring an effective review of the current services.

If you are unable to attend one of our face-to-face events, it would be much appreciated if you could complete this on-line survey:

Coltale's Top Tip

Why not try to play 'ready, steady, go' games to help build anticipation skills?

Anticipation games allow children to practise saying certain phrases and short, simple sentences. It's also a great way for them to take the lead and get prepared for something fun!

By giving answers and explaining what will happen after 'Go!' you are encouraging your child to put together sentences on their own and get creative.

By playing this game, your child will also practise their attention and listening skills as they will wait for the 'go' before they can do something.

Working out whether or not they have to do the action after 'go' helps children develop their decision-

For example, blow bubbles with your child and build suspense by saying 'ready... steady...' . Then wait for your child to respond with a word, a nod or a sign, before saying 'go' and blowing.

This will help your child learn to take turns and focus their attention.

Blowing bubbles also develops the small muscles in your child's mouth as they pucker their lips and blow bubbles.
