Living, Growing and Changing in City Nurseries

Aldgate Nursery - with other City settings - have been learning about living, growing and the changing natural world.

Children at Smithfield House Nursery too have been excitedly watching their ducklings hatch.

The manager Janet Macgregor said "As they gathered around the incubator, the children were mesmerised."

"As the ducklings slowly pecked their way out. Some cheered quietly while others watched in silence, their faces lit up with joy. It was a moment that connected them to nature and gave them a sense of responsibility and care for living things"

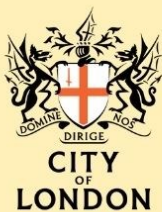

"In the days that followed, the children eagerly observed the ducklings as they grew stronger, fluffed up, and began to waddle. They enjoyed times when they could interact with the ducklings, watching them walk about, swim in the water, and gently hold them. Every morning the children would run into the office to see them in their cage to see how much they had grown!"

Hatching Dragons Nursery's children have also been nurturing chicks, asking questions and learning about lifecycles!

What an amazing experience for our Early Years children!

Childcare Choices

Changes to childcare support mean you might now be eligible for more help than ever before.

Support from Childcare Choices can give your child a great start while giving you work choices. From this September, 15 hours childcare for working families with children under 3 will expand to 30 hours, meaning eligible working families can now apply for 30 hours of childcare from the term after their child turns 9 months until they reach school age.

Apply for your childcare code now!
